|---|---|---|---|
| Between the Lions helps 4-7 year olds learn to read | an "always on TV" causes children less focused play   | the learning triangle combines active TV viewing with related books and activities                                      | Sesame Street provides 2-4 year olds an introduction to letters and numbers |
| Arthur helps teach expressive language              | active TV viewing is when kids sing and dance with music, talk about the characters, predict what will happen next, etc | passive viewing is watching TV without any adult interaction, causing much less learning than active learning           | limit TV time   |
| watch TV together                                   | FREE SPACE  | Clifford's Big Ideas are: be responsible, believe in yourself, be truthful, help others, play fair, work together, etc. | you can find OETA's schedule in the newspaper, TV guide or on PBSKids.org   |
| watch programs, not constant background TV          | PBSKids.org is an excellent source for games, activity ideas and lesson plans   | parents need to set healthy TV routines when child is small   | active viewing is a good habit to start                                     |
